same level character of country, but in many cases interspersed with small farms, the cultivation of which owed its origin to a number of Norfolk island emigrants, who arrived here at the breaking up of that island. Westbury is a small township, situated on the eastern bank of a winding stream called Quamby's creek, which runs in a serpentine direction for many miles through a fine grazing country. We were informed that the grasses indigenous to this district were of a highly nutritive character; and that the milk produced from the cows fed upon them furnished cream so thick that it was often cut with a knife, and consequently yielding butter of an excellent quality and flavour. Continuing our journey along this western road, we passed through some fine open plains, with occasional belts of forest, consisting principally of the genus Eucalypti, and an undergrowth of Dodonea, Correa, Accacia, Lomatia, Leucopogon, Leptospermum, &c., to which were clinging the Cassytha, or wire grass, one of the Tasmanian representatives of the race of emblems of ingratitude to the vegetable kingdom, as, being a parasite, it takes root and derives all the sustenance from the plant on which it grows, and subsequently kills the source from whence it was indebted for its growth. The country we discovered to be well watered by the river Meander, with its various tributary streams. To the east and west, at about ten miles distance, was the great basaltic wall, or chain of mountains, whose average height was 4000 feet above sea level, covered, to within 200 feet of their summits, with trees of the most stately description, and affording a great and varied field to the botanist. Midway between the road and the main range was a solitary and detached

NAVIGATING ARCHIVE CD BOOKS CDs

All Archive CD Books products can be navigated easily using the handy bookmarks on each CD. The table of contents in most original books, and the original book index where it exists, can provide additional ways of finding the information required.

SEARCHING TEXT ON ARCHIVE CD BOOKS AUSTRALIA CDs

Optical Character Recognition (OCR) technology has been developing over the years as a useful mechanism to convert images (as Archive CD Books pages are) into text which can be searched.

The quality of the OCR can still vary, and hence the searchability can vary. Around 95% or 99% of the words in books with good type are searchable—or even higher with very good type.

OCR is now a wonderful searching aid in many instances but there is still no substitute for reading the book!

DIFFERENT VERSIONS OF ADOBE ACROBAT READER

Adobe Acrobat Reader 4 or later should be used. Adobe Reader 6 (as it is now named) in fact has considerably better searching options and is recommended.

- Acrobat Reader v4 has both a "Find" and a "Search" tool. Those tools are two totally different things. Our CDs (that are searchable) work with the FIND tool
- Acrobat Reader v5 has only a "Find" tool (not a "search" tool). Our CDs (that are searchable) work with the FIND tool.
- Adobe Reader v6 has only a "Search" tool (not a tool labelled "Find")
HOWEVER — what is called "Search" is the same as the tool that used to be called "Find" Our CDs (that are searchable) work with the SEARCH tool

TIPS FOR SEARCHING AND GETTING MORE FROM THE CD BOOKS

- update to Adobe Reader 6 for more versatile searching options, including the ability to bring up a list of all instances of the word you are searching for — across multiple files on a single CD in a single search request.
- enter the MINIMUM number of characters needed to bring up the search results required.
- use Adobe Reader 6 to do some trial searches to try to identify the characters that may be misread. These can show up in the extra text in the search results list (Adobe 6 only). A few minutes trial will help you to avoid using characters that are more prone to being misread, e.g. try entering "rederi" if you want "Frederick", but find that the letters "F" "c" and "k" are sometimes misread.
- use the "Match whole word" option to eliminate unnecessary items in your results list, e.g. to eliminate all the blacksmiths and tinsmiths etc when you only want the name Smith
- use the "Match case" option when you want to eliminate all the occupations "smith" if you only want the name "Smith"
- Don't just search for names. Search the book for other names, places and subjects of interest:
 - look for others of the same name
 - look for others who lived in the same place or street
 - who was the postmaster or police officer in the town?
 - how often and at what time did the coach arrive in town?
 - what churches were there and what time were services held?
 - what other activities were there in the community?
 - look for others who had the same occupation or other interests
- All of this and more may be available in a seemingly mundane book such as a directory. You could learn or write much of the background of life at the time, even if your ancestor is not listed there.

ADOBE ACROBAT SEARCHING IS A WONDERFUL FIRST FINDING AID.
BUT DO NOT RELY ON IT TO PICK UP ALL THE INFORMATION YOU WANT
